Office of Judicial Performance Evaluation

INTRODUCTION

Thank you again for your help in completing a performance evaluation survey of Colorado judges before whom you have appeared, or by whom you have been affected.

The combined results of this evaluation will be used by members of the Judicial Performance Commissions in their evaluation of judges and in making retention recommendations for voters. Judges use survey results for performance feedback and professional development.

The survey is completely voluntary.

If you are having difficulty with the online survey, please email Xiaolei Pan at xpan@marketdecisions.com for assistance accessing the survey.

CONFIDENTIALITY

Confidentiality

Your honest, constructive, and accurate evaluations of judges are a crucial component of the Judicial Performance Evaluation program. For this reason, the evaluations you provide are confidential.

All data is stored in a database on a secure server and will not be shared with the judge or judges you evaluate or any other Colorado official. A summary report of average ratings will be generated and will be shared with the judge/judges and the judicial performance commission.

Constructive written evaluation comments are extremely valuable to judges, as this type of feedback often provides richer information than may be gleaned from standardized ratings. Because the written evaluation comments you provide will be listed verbatim in the summary report the judge will receive, please use your best judgment when deciding what information to include. Please consider whether any identifying details you choose to volunteer are needed to describe the behaviors or skills you want to highlight for the commission and judge.

To preserve the confidentiality of this process, avoid providing details in your written evaluation comments that you believe would personally identify you to the judge. This includes, but may not be limited to, explicit references to a specific case or client.

STRENGTHS AND WEAKNESSES

Remembering Examples of [JUDGENAME]'s Performance

Research has shown that people make better evaluations of performance when they first take the time to recall specific examples of the judge's actions, behavior, and performance on the job. Rather than simply relying on general impressions of the judge, when a person instead takes a few minutes to recall specific behaviors they have seen a judge engage in, their appraisals of the judge's performance are more likely to be accurate. Before you proceed with [JUDGENAME]'s evaluation, please respond to the following:

STRENGTH

What would you say are this judge's strengths?

WEAKNESS

What would you say are this judge's weaknesses?

EVALUATION INSTRUCTIONS

Evaluation of [JUDGENAME]

In the following six sections, you will be asked a series of questions about [JUDGENAME]'s performance. Please give careful thought to each item. Base your evaluations only on your personal experiences with the judge in the past 24 months, and not on how the judge behaved several years ago, how you think the judge behaves in other proceedings, others' impressions of the judge, or the judge's reputation.

To answer each item, please consider the context in which you have directly worked with [JUDGENAME]. For those items that you are able to evaluate based on your personal experience with [JUDGENAME], please indicate the extent to which you observed the described behavior using the following scale.

- I observed the behavior in question once in a while.
- I observed the behavior in question some of the time.
- I frequently observed the behavior in question.
- I observed the behavior in question every or almost every time.

Some of the items in this evaluation refer to specific circumstances that only occasionally arise for a judge on the job. Your evaluation ratings should be based only on the judge's behavior when the described circumstances actually arose.

Please use the N/A response option instead the above rating scale when: (a) the circumstances under which the described judicial behavior might arise never actually occurred in your experiences with the judge, and/or (b) you do not possess the technical knowledge necessary to evaluate the judge on a particular item.
